FINANCIAL. While the fate of the silver bill remains undecided there is, of course, a certain amount of suspense in monetary affairs; but if it shows itself here at all, it is in effecting quietude, for business at the banks yesterday was decidedly dull. The demand for money has become so dull that a considerable amount due at one of the banks was offered New York. back on renewals, without acceptance in a Philadelphia... the former only from customers in some of the banks. Chicago, 60 discount," The same paper says sterling exchange was strong, because of United States bonds arriving from Europe; the tendency of the market is expected to contique upward, with advanced rates next week, and perhaps an export of gold in March. "It is to be remem-bared that we have yet an immense amount of western products to come forward; enough, in all probability, to pay for our trade imports. The cotton export movement for the year has, however, culunated. It we export gold, it will be wholly cause of bond importations, and these must be very large to turn the exchanges against us. Silver in Leadon to-day was 54% d per ounce, a decline of 1% d. The gold value of the 412% grains dollar to-day would have been 91% conts gold. The New York Bulletin, of Monday, "Operations were quite largely confined to March contracts, and these were particularly in demand by the representatives of leading export houses, with every reason to believe that the cotton was bought to ship. There has also been a quick stoppage of the March no-tices issued, and this aided somewhat in imparting a firmer tone, as leading to the impression that actual cotton was wanted. Indeed, this is considered the base of the demand for near-by contracts, as above noted, the continued widening-out of quotations baving so reduced the cost of the lower grades as to induce shippers to believe that there can be little danger in purchasing upon a basis price, and especially where deliveries on contract are to be made on the 'other side.'" /BY TELEGRAPH.]

Her cabin is literally jammed, while standing-room for deckers is in demand. The Mardi-Gras festivities began when she cut loose from the Cincinnati wharf, and there has been no abstances to of the mirth and there has been no abatement of the mirth and there has been no abatement of the mirth and enjoyment. Everybody was happy, and the man who never sleeps has had company all the way down. Her manifest shows four-teen hundred tons of freight. Besides dis-charging a few lots of sundries and taking coal, the Morgan did nothing here.
